2019 Texas Regional Fatherhood Summit

Who should attend the Texas Regional Fatherhood Summit?

The Texas Regional Fatherhood Summits are for professionals who engage with and/or impact policies about fathers and families, including local policymakers and agencies, researchers, practitioners, and representatives from parent and family programs, nonprofits, and other community groups.

When does registration open?

Registration for each location is separate with different opening dates starting in February 2019. See other side for specific registration dates and links.

Is there a fee to attend?

The Texas Fatherhood Summit is hosted by Texas DFPS Prevention and Early Intervention Division and The University of Texas at Austin Child and Family Research Partnership. There is no fee to attend. However, there is a maximum of 5 attendees from each organization, based on order of registration.

How do I stay informed?

Be sure to sign-up for the CFRP email list to receive updates at <http://bit.ly/cfrpemail> and follow @CFRPIbj on Facebook and Twitter.

Are you seeking speakers?

We have a wonderful, custom agenda planned for each location and are not soliciting speakers.

Are there opportunities for organizations to have a table?

As at previous summits, there will be opportunities for attendee organizations only to provide resource materials on shared tables to inform other attendees of how fathers are supported in their community and the state. Promotional/sales materials are not allowed. Download the PDF request form at http://bit.ly/txdads2019_table.

Where can I find more information?

The most recent updates will be shared by email and online at <http://childandfamilyresearch.utexas.edu/txdads2019>. Contact cfrp@austin.utexas.edu with direct questions.
